HaTTIN REOPENS AFTER FALSE ACCUSATIONS MADE

The HaTTIN offices were raided earlier this week by ISB, shutting down all operations for the last several days. This left critical reports of IS4 unable to be broadcast.

Though the situation is still evolving, foul play is suspected. HaTTIN reporters were able to speak directly to the ISB officials conducting the search, when they learned that the search was actually done as a reaction to allegations made against another EH TIE Corps ship.

According to our sources, one week prior to the opening of IS4 the same officials received a tip that Warrior incoming shipments may be carrying illegal cargo. Several hours later, in the middle of the night, they boarded a fleet of incoming supply carriers.

"They were shocked at what they found," said HaTTIN's source who asked to stay anonymous for fear of retaliation.

There were seven large containers, each labeled as weighing over 100 kilos. They were not listed on any manifests, were all packaged together, and were unmarked, other than a note that said "do not open until IS4."

Oddly, upon further investigation, most of the crates contained little to nothing. A few food wrappers and a couple of small blankets were all that remained.

The investigation has not advanced much further since, though it was later discovered that the bottom of each crate had a cobra insignia. Sources say the HaTTIN raid was made based off of false information that some of its reporters were somehow involved.

HaTTIN is proud to announce a victory over the Worrier forces last week. Our reporter LCM Wolve Berkana put it this way:

Worrier COM, VA I-Can't-Believe-It's-Not-Margarine was getting buttered up at the thought of combat with the Hammer. She thought the Hammer would be toast after the Challenged attack, but she was sorely mistaken. Churning over her next moves, she decided to send the largest fleet available to try to catch the Hammer spread too thin. To her shock, Hammer pilots melted through the forces with ease.

Immediately following that battle The Hammer command staff held a press conference. The transcript of this conference will be posted exclusively by HaTTIN in the coming hours.
