AN UNWORTHY CHALLENGED

Author: Wook. E. Cheeks

News reporter for the Hammer Times - Intergalactic News Network (HaTINN)

A critical strike! Hammer forces rejoice with what will soon be a resounding victory over the Challenged rag-tag band of misfits that they call a fleet.

Silverado and his gang of goonies attempted to make a surprise preemptive strike but were met with the mighty cheeks of the Hammer's navy.

The Hammer expects a swift end to the battle and are demonstrating a tremendous amount bravery and skill as they surgically dismantle the enemy assailants as the Challenged's pathetic excuse of a bombardment which has fallen flat upon the spaces in and around Ganarria.

Nissan Sentra, Commodore of the Warrior should view this as a warning for others who decide to be bold and think they can take on the might of the glorious Hammer.

The following in the next column is an interview between our news staff and the acting Commodore, Genie on the current state of affairs surrounding the conflict:

Cheeks: "Commande-err Commodore Genie, what were the keys to the Hammer's victory?"

Genie: "Lube - and lots of it." as he produces a TIE grease gun from behind the bar counter.

Cheeks, whispering: "I'm not referring to last night with the Twi'leks..."

Genie: "Oh, I know what you were referring to," now holding up two grease guns.

Solohan: "They don't call the maneuver the 'dirty-Ewok' for nothing. I really yubbed their nubs, if yaknowwhatimean"

Genie: "That was you? I should have known when I found fur all over these..."

Cheeks: "Any advice for the next encounter?"

Genie: "Get lots of rest and go lube up our fighters for the battle. Oh, and don't forget the blaster inspection... now take these back to the Hangar," as he hands the grease guns to the pilots.

This is an ongoing situation, and details may change quickly. Continue to follow HaTINN for continual coverage.
